

ABSTRACT

A manufacturing method for a non-volatile memory device includes the steps of forming a well and a channel in 5 a silicon substrate, depositing a tunnel oxide layer, a first polysilicon layer and a nitride layer sequentially, and then performing a trench etching thereof to thereby form a self-align flash memory device.